To BOTANISTS, GARDENERS and FLORISTS,

AND to all other ladies and gentlemen, curious in ornamental, rare exotic or foreign plants and flowers, cultivated in the green house, hot house, or stove, and in the open ground—A large and numerous variety of such rarities is now offered for sale, being the acquirement of many years earnest application, great assiduity, and considerable expence.

The present proprietor having, from the natural growth and successful increase of his plants, as well from frequent other acquirements and additions to his collection, so far increased it as to render the allotted apartments not sufficiently large and commodious, is induced to make this offer, or sacrifice. After reserving a general and saleable stock, he has to spare a well assorted and great variety of those things, comprising a beautiful collection, sufficient to decorate, furnish, and ornament a spacious or handsome green-house AT ONCE. The whole collection, for that department, will be sold on very moderate and easy terms; or the proprietor may be induced to divide it into two equal lots; but he does not on any account intend to allow them to be selected or culled out by separately selling single plants or small lots in any thing like a retail way.

The whole is a truly valuable collection, such as is very rarely to be met with for sale on this side the Atlantic—indeed a moiety of them would comprise a very desirable and extensive variety, consisting of many or most of the tropical fruits, and other rare and curious finely ornamental trees, shrubs, and plants, with a numerous and abundant assortment of choice bulbous, tuberous, and fibrous rooted flowering and ornamental plants in mixtures; all of good or superior kinds, as may be seen by the catalogue. For which, and for any further necessary information, please to apply to John Cummings, at the Alms-house, Messrs. David and Cuthbert Landrith, gardeners and nursery-men, in in High-street, above Twelfth-street, Philadelphia, Mr. William Booth, in the same line of business, Baltimore, or Mr David Williamson, Greenwich-street, New-York.

N. B. It is now a good time and proper season to build a green-house, and to remove plants.

AT a meeting of the General Board of the Guardians of the Poor,

PRESENT,

Charles Swift,	Jacob Greble,
William Preston,	William Holdernesse,
Luke W. Morris,	Samuel Gatliff,
Charles Pleasants,	Matthew Vanduzen,
Geraldus Stockdale,	James Engle.

Whereas the distressed situation of many of the inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia arising from the present calamity, requires immediate relief; and whereas, from the general absence of the freeholders, and other taxable inhabitants, it has become impracticable to continue the collection of the taxes appropriated for the support of the poor.

Therefore resolved, That Samuel Gatliff and Charles Pleasants shall be a committee from this Board, to negociate a loan from either of the Banks in this city, amounting to ten thousand dollars, five thousand of which to be advanced immediately, and the other five thousand, when in the opinion of this Board it shall become necessary.

Resolved. That such part of the buildings at Masters' Place, as belong to the Guardians of the Poor, be appropropriated for the reception of such children, as may become orphans in consequence of the present calamity, and that Luke W. Morris be appointed to procure Nurses, and other proper attendants for them, and generally to superintend that part of the Encampment.

Resolved, That William Holdernesse, William Preston, James Engle, and Matthew Vanduzen, Guardians of the Poor, in conjunction with Dr. Samuel P. Griffitts, John Evans, Thomas Harrison and John James; shall be a committee for granting relief to the poor and distressed inhabitants of the city of Philadelphia, the District of Southwark, and the Northern-Liberties, which committee shall keep an account of the persons relieved, and the sums expended; having also power to appoint such persons as they may deem qualified to assist in visiting all and every house in which sick or distressed persons are resident, in order that full and effectual relief may be afforded.

Resolved, That Luke W. Morris be the Treasurer of the above committee, and that the money which may be borrowed from the Banks, agreeably to a resolution of this day, be lodged in his hands to defray the expences of the above committee, and such as may be incured in maintaining the orphan children at Masters' Place. d1w.

Foreign Intelligence.

LONDON, Auguſt 13.

Lord Mullgrave's miſſion is not to Vienna but to the head-quarters of the Auſtrian army, for the purpoſe of concerting with the Archduke Charles, on the moſt effectual means for the ſecret expedition to co-operate with his Royal Highneſs. The army to be commanded by Field Marſhal, the Duke of York, will compriſe 40 thouſand Britiſh, 36,000 Ruſſians, 8000 Swedes, 6000 Heſſians, and 3000 Wirtembergers, amounting in the entire to 93,000 men whoſe firſt object, we have reaſon to believe, is to re-eſtabliſh the government of the Stadtholder, which the great body of the Dutch anxiouſly deſire.

Advices were on Saturday received from General Cuyler at Liſbon. The troops unper his command were in excellent health and ſpirits.—Conſiderable apprehenſions had been entertained by the inhabitants of a viſit from the combined fleets.

By the beſt information we can obtain through the French and German papers, there is much reaſon to fear that the Engliſh fleets have wholly miſtaken the object, and remained long ignorant of the courſe of the enemy. In the beginning of July we had three ſquadrons; one cruiſing near Toulon, another near Genoa, and a third near Leghorn, while other ſhips were engaged in tranſporting troops along the coaſts of Italy; aſſiſting the operations of the war on the land, rather than watching the particular intereſts of this country on the ocean. Some of our Miniſters were poſitive in their opinion that the Breſt ſquadron was gone, either to relieve Buonaparte, or to aſſiſt General Macdonald: but they ſhould have known, that the communication of the latter with France never was cut off, and our intereſt could be but very diſtantly affected by the former.—Courier.

The Dutch fleet ready for ſea conſiſts of eight ſail of the line in the Texel, and at Helvoet three of the like deſcription, apparently, in every reſpect equipped, having their ſails bent and top gallant yards acroſs. There are in the ſame ſtate a dozen frigates, two of which are uncommnoly powerful. Lord Duncan, before the late detachment from his fleet, had fifteen ſail of the Britiſh line, and ſix Ruſſians; 5 of the former are, ere this, at Torbay; and he is competent to further detach, ſhould it be deemed expedient that he ſhonld do ſo.

Letters from Leghorn announce, that in the morning of the 9th, many very valuable effects belonging to the French were ſent on board an American ſhip of 20 guns. The following night a great number of officers, and afterwards all the French Staff, the Commiſſary Reinhard, the Conſul Kerei, and other functionaries, went on board the ſame ſhip, which ſailed at ten o'clock in the morning. An hour afterwards, two Engliſh brigs appeared in the offing, with a Neapolitan Xebec, and we ſaw them direct a violent cannonade upon the American, We have ſince been informed, that two Engliſh frigates arrived very opportunely, as the American veſſel was taken, together with a Raguſan polacre, that ſerved as advice boat. A greater number of the grand Duke's effects are likewiſe brought up and ſent to Florence?

Accounts from Florence confirm the capture of an American ſhip of 20 guns, and a Raguſan polacre, by the Engliſh, who had received intelligence that the French Staff, &c. with conſiderable treaſures, had embarked at Leghorn on board theſe veſſels.

AUGUST 15.

RECEPTION of the POPE in FRANCE.

The veneration diſplayed by the inhabitants of Dauphiny for the holy character of the head of their religion, furniſhes a ſatisfactory proof, notwithſtanding the confident and profane declamations of Jacobiniſm, that the ſentiments of piety formerly entertained by the people of France, are not yet extinct in that unhappy country.

From the moment the Pope entered the French territory, he was, though guarded by a choſen corps, received by the people in every part of the way, with the moſt heartfelt demonſtrations of reſpect and attention. Every attempt to ſuppreſs the public feelings on the ſight of a character to truly venerable, and made ſtill more dear by the cruel treatment of his perſecutors, proved abortive, and his Guards were forced to yield to the univerſal emotions of the inhabitants. When he was conducted in a litter acroſs the mountains of higher Dauphiny, the people crowded from the neighbouring diſtricts, fell on their knees as he paſſed, and implored his benediction. They took the mules from the litter, which they carried on their ſhoulders to the caſtle de Vizille, relieving each other by turns. His holineſs ſtopped two days at the caſtle, and the maſter of it was anxious to ſhow him every attention that could refreſh him after the fatigues of his journey. During that time the large court was filled both day and night, with the peaſantry, who proſtrated themſelves whenever the pontiff appeared, and entreated his bleſſing.

It was intended that he ſhould paſs rapidly through the city of Grenoble, in order to prevent him from being inſulted by the jacobins, and a carriage with good horſes was provided for that purpoſe. The people, however, refuſed to comply with the wiſhes of his official conductors, and conſidering the precaution as mean and diſhonorable, they unharneſſed the horſes, and threatened to burn the carriage if they were not permitted to carry the pope in his litter, and offered to arm themſelves for his protection. When the approach of his holineſs was known in Grenoble, the inhabitants came out in crowds to meet him. In the midſt of this numerous proceſſion, Pius the VIth paſſed thro' the city, attended by conſtant acclamations, and the moſt lively demonſtrations of intereſt and ſenſibility. This public and ſolemn declaration of ſentiment reſtrained the jacobins from attempting oppoſition; the proceſſion paſſed in perfect order through the city, and continued to Vairon, ſix leagues from Grenoble, on the road to Lyons.

In this proceſſion, which reflects ſo much honour on the religious zeal of the inhabitants, in defiance of the ſyſtem of terror, the venerable Pontiff had more the appearance of a father in the midſt of his children, than of a captive ſurrounded by his guards. His countenance was calm, and expreſſive of his innocence of mind, while his language was remarkable for moderation and piety.

Two circumſtances happened while he was paſſing through Dauphioy, which afforded a ſingular contraſt. General Championet, formerly cook to the hotel of the Princes at Grenoble, paſſed through that city on his return from Naples, on the ſame day that the Pope was there; no attention was paid to the Carmagnol general. The ſame day the three directors of the fallen Ciſalpine Republic alſo arrived at that place, and demanded a room at the hotel of that city, in order to hold their deliberations there, but were received by the people with the moſt marked expreſſions of contempt and deteſtation.

AUGUST 17.

Yeſterday morning advice was received by the admiralty, that on the 13th inſt. the combined fleets of France and Spain, got ſafe into Breſt. Whatever the original plan of the French in this expedition may have been, it has thus utterly failed; but in their return to Breſt they have taken a moſt effectual mean of ſecuring the fidelity of the court of Spain, by carrying in with them the Cadiz fleet. In the preſent circumſtances of France, this is a material acquiſition, ſince it will enable them to threaten us with a combined force of at leaſt 50 ſhips of the line, and which will oblige us to keep a proportionate fleet at ſea to obſerve their motions.

Lord Keith, with 13 ſhips of the line, arrived off the port of Breſt on Tueſday afternoon. The utmoſt exertion was made by every ſhip of the fleet to come up with the enemy, but they had too much the ſtart of them.

AUGUST 20.

There were many reports yeſterday reſpecting the armament under the command of Sir Ralph Abercrombie, all of them unauthoriſed and contradictory. Agreeably to theſe reports, the diſembarkation had taken place at Bremerlehue, at Embden, at Scheveling, at Goree, at Fluſhing, and various other parts. No ſuch accounts have arrived. We believe that the only genuine advice from this fleet ſtates, on Friday evening they were ſtill at ſea, and that the commander in chief, ſignified his earneſt wiſh, that more cavalry ſhould be ſent to him with all poſſible expedition, as from information received, he had reſolved to exerciſe the diſcretion with which he has entruſted, to land at a different point from that originally ſettled. It was ſaid that the court of Denmark, ſteady to its reſolution of neutrality, had poſitively refuſed to the Ruſſian troops leave to march through the Dutchy of Holſtein.

A report was yeſterday in circulation, upon the authority of the maſter of the Sophia brig, who left Bologne on the 14th, that conſiderable diſturbance had taken place in ſeveral parts of France, principally at Liſle and Amiens. The preparations for the ſailing of our expedition gave riſe to the circumſtance, in which they originated. The appearance of our tranſports, deſcried from the coaſt of France, produced an alarm. It was conjectured that its deſtination was for Holland, or Flanders, and orders were given for the Conſcripts on the coaſt to march for Fluſhing. The Conſcripts refuſed to march, and in the attempt to compel them, great riots enſued. The populace ſhewed a diſpoſition to eſpouſe the cauſe of the Conſcripts. The Tree of Liberty was cut down and every place reſounded with the cries of Down with the jacobins—And, according to this account, every thing was in confuſion.

A ſingle Paris paper of the 10th was received yeſterday. It contains nothing new, except that the appointment of Rheinhard, as Miniſter of Foreign affairs, has been recalled, and Lacomb St. Michael, appointin his ſtead.

SULTAUNUT SING.

This unhappy diſcontented man has at length met with the fate he deſerved in the following manner:—

Thoolaul Doobey. the Aumil of Juanpoor, being on a viſit to Rajah Pawanny Perſaud, got intelligence that Sultaunut had again collected his banditti, to the number of 400, and had taken poſt in the Shabdipoor Jungle; this information he received on the 15th inſtant, when he was at the diſtance of 30 miles from the poſt Sultaunut occupied, and immediately on receiving it, propoſed to Rajah Bowanny Perſaud to go after him that night with his troops, and ſurround the Jungle; to which propoſal the Rajah readily conſented. Gunga Sing's battalion croſſed Goumty at midnight, and reached the Northern borders of Sahabdipoor Jungle before day-light; Omade Sing's followed the example, up to their necks in water; and Buxally Beg's battalion brought up the rear. The whole force, not leſs than 7000 men, including 600 cavalry, perfectly ſurrounded the Jungle. At day-light the Rebel's party were obſerved by Gunga Sing, when the action took place firſt with his battallion, and Sultaunut Sing, endeavoring to eſcape with about 100 of his men, was forced back to the Jungle by the cavalry, where Omade Sing's battalion were ready to receive him, when finding it impoſſible to eſcape, he continued fighting 4 hours againſt a force ſo very ſuperior, and after receiving three balls dropped, when his head was ſevered from his body, and the few adherents who were near him immediately gave up. The loſs ſuſtained by the Nawab's troops, were 20 killed and 72 wounded; on Sultaunut Sing's ſide, 108 were counted dead on the field, amongſt whom the ſuppoſe is Hunnamaun Bux, the brother of Sultaunut; Dial Sing and Oued Sing, near relations, were wounded and taken priſoners, and Runna Sing, who was taken alſo, was wounded in 15 places.

PAVIA, July 11.

Lord Nelſon is ſaid to have landed at Naples, and that 15,000 Neapolitan troops have been marched to Rome, to take Macdonald in the rear. Many movements are making in the Imperial army, under Field Marſhal Suwarrow; the right wing aſcends the Bormida towards Garello and Ormea, as well as from the ſide of Coldi Tenda. General Moreau, to avoid being cut off, will probably evacuate the Genoeſe. His head quarters are ſaid to be at Albengha. The French troops occupying the Ligurian Appenine are likewiſe reported to have retreated from the ſide of Pavia to the main body of the army.

MILAN, July 11.

Field Marſhal Suwarrow has detached ſtrong corps to Coni and Feneſtrelles, to cut off Moreau's army entirely, in that quarter, from France. The enemy being much in want in the Genoeſe, and the communication by ſea being ſhut up by the Engliſh, they haſtened back, by forced marches towards Nice, by Coni and Feneſtrelles, to make reſiſtance, and preſerve their communication with France.—Tuſcany will ſoon be occupied, like the Genoeſe, without ſtriking a blow.

FLORENCE, July 13.

On the 10th inſtant, Mr. Windham, the Engliſh Miniſter, received by a courier, the news of the ſurrender of Naples to the royal army. That city as well as its forts are now in the King's power, and guarded in his majeſty's name, by Cardinal Ruffo's army; and the Engliſh. The perfidious Caracciolo, and ſeveral other nobles, traitors to their Sovereign, have been hanged on board the Neapolitan frigate Minerva. They were ſeized in a ſhip which was to have taken them to Malta. The ſame miniſter has ſent us advice of the entry of the Britiſh fleet into the Mediterranean, conſiſting of a great number of ſhips of the line, frigates and cutters, with a conſiderable body of Engliſh troops, deſtined to act in Italy, as circumſtances may require.

About 2000 of Macdonald's army having taken the fortreſs of Carſogano in the way to the mountains of St. Pelegrino, the Auſtrians, who had received intimation of it, purſued, overtook, and entirely diſperſed them, ſeizing all their artillery. The inhabitants of St. Marcello, likewiſe attacked another corps, and took 150 priſoners, Piedmonteſe and French.

DIED.]—In Kent co. Maryland, on 29th inſtant, ſincerely lamented by her numerous relations and friends, Mrs. Elizabeth Lloyd, wife of General James Lloyd. Her illneſs was ſhort, and the affliction was the more intenſe to her ſurvivors for being unexpected. In her family, ſhe was diſcreet and exemplary, and enjoyed the beſt reward of domeſtic affiduity, in the entire affection of her more immediate connections; as the propriety of her deportment univerſally ſecured her the eſteem of all who had the pleaſure of an acquaintance with her.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 9.

Of the Fleets—the lateſt.

By the arrival of the Packet, we are enabled to inform our readers (in contradiction of what appeared in a morning paper yeſterday,) that the Britiſh fleet is arrived in Torbay, and the French and Spaniards, having eſcaped the vigilance of the Britiſh Admiral, have anchored in Breſt Roads.

The following information is handed by Captain Jones, of the brig Jane Maria, arrived yeſterday from Curracoa.

R. Jones, maſter of the Jane Maria, ſailed from Curracoa the 14th Auguſt. A few days before he ſailed, the Governor of that iſland found out a plot of the French (that cruel nation, who not ſatisfied with what they can plunder and ſteal on the high ſeas, wiſh alſo to plunder on the land:) they intended to take poſſeſſion of the iſland, put the Governor to death, and a number of the merchants, and to make prizes of the American veſſels that were in the harbour, which were at that time 21 in number.

The governor has taken up the French general and ambaſſador that were ſent to Curracoa by Gen. Touſſaint of St. Domingo, and ſent them to Port-au-Prince in the ſhip George of Philadelphia, and alſo M. Gredat, who was French conſul ſome time at Curracoa; he is too well known to a number of our maſters of veſſels and many merchants in different parts of the United States, who ſuffered by his villainy. He is under cloſe confinement, and no perſon allowed to ſpeak to him. Juſt as I was ſailing out of the harbour, there was a ſhip coming in from Surrinam that brought the account of the Britiſh having taken poſſeſſion of that place.
